

Meet Simplicity

It has been a while since we started development of our new design internally called "simplicity". It's a completely overhauled UI, which will bring a clear, polished and more up-to-date look&fell to our websites. In addition, with simplicity, we are also making a big step forward to our sites being more responsive. There is still work to be done, but things are starting to fall into place nicely.

Nexedi relaunch

Today we launched our first simplicity-styled site, www.nexedi.com. The site has been completely redesigned with a renewed focus on successful business cases. In the coming months our other sites will also be updated step by step, so stay tuned for further announcements.